

To those of us on the consumer side of business, the previous action taken in implementing the Wisconsin no call list was a great service to the citizens of this state. The citizens should have and retain the right to direct telemarketers to conduct advertising by other means than bothersome telephone calls. I feel I purchase my telephone service for my personal use. If telemarketers want to use my phone service to sell me their products, they can pay me for that use and my time. I have loved the non-intruding and peaceful days and evenings since the program was started. I support the efforts to keep things as they are.
